Have you ever wondered how pysanky were coloured 200 hundred years ago? Would you like to go natural with your own pysanky but maybe you are not sure where to start? Then this workshop is for you. We will discuss all the different kinds of natural dyes that can be used on eggs and will briefly look back at the historic background of natural dyes and why we stopped using them. You will learn about the how to use natural dyes, as well as, the additives that are often required to use natural dyes, also where to get the dyes, and how to make them.
